ABOUT

James is an Olivier Award winning choreographer and movement director and artistic director of his eponymous company. He's a highly valued collaborator, a diligent worker and a fast thinker who is passionate about creating a caring and joyful work space.

"I still pinch myself that I get to create dance for a living. I love the connection between movement, music and meaning and am excited by pushing the limits of what my choreography or direction can do. It excites me to hear an idea and think about what I can add to it to take it to the next level."
